Working principle

When the flotation machine is working, the motor drives the impeller to rotate, resulting in centrifugal effect and negative pressure. On the one hand, it absorbs enough air to mix with the pulp, on the other hand, mixes the mixed pulp with additives, and thins the foam, and the minerals combine with the foam and float on the surface of the pulp to form a mineralized foam. The liquid level can be adjusted with the height of the regulating plate, and the useful foam can be scraped away with the scraper.
